

2010 Study Circles Project

Ten hours of your time = Change for a child's lifetime

Help us prove this equation true!

Join in a community conversation about learning opportunities children and youth should have outside of school time in central Little Rock.

These conversations are being organized by a group of community volunteers, coordinated through UALR's University District Educational Network.

They will be conducted using the Study Circles process:

- Small groups (8-10 people)
- 4 separate 2-hour sessions
(Please see sign-up form for specific dates and times)
- Facilitated discussions
- End with a community-wide Action Forum

To sign up, please complete the form on the back of this sheet
AND contact Julie at 569-3187 or jchall2@ualr.edu.

Questions?

Contact Julie Hall at 569-3187 or jchall2@ualr.edu.

Thanks for your time and consideration.

2010 Study Circles Project

Learning Beyond the School Day

Please check one:

YES! I have 10 hours to give and will commit to participate in a Study Circle discussion group focused on the issue of out of school time this fall. I understand the Study Circle will meet for four two-hour sessions in November followed by an Action Forum in which I will be asked to participate in early December.

NO. I cannot commit to being part of a Study Circle right now but I am interested in being part of this community effort to improve opportunities for children and youth when they are not in school. Please keep me informed of future events.
