Classes and private lessons in music and the arts.

If you are looking for quality instruction in music and arts for yourself or a loved one, let our experienced instructors help you discover your talents. We offer private instruction in piano, guitar, voice, flute, and percussion, as well as workshops in visual arts and music technology.

The Hub is currently accepting students in guitar, voice, piano, flute, and percussion. For more information, and to schedule a lesson please contact Steve Quintilian, Education Director, at 443-520-3237 or thehub@harfordcommunity.org

Partner With Your Organization

We can provide your organization with quality music and arts education resources. Whether you need private instruction for individual students, instruction for larger classes, or group workshops in a specific area, we will partner with you to create a class that will benefit your students.

Meet the Instructors

Steve Quintilian, Education Director and Guitar

Instructor. Steve is a versatile musician with experience and interest in many facets of music. Having played and studied music for 17 years, he has been exposed to many styles and performance settings. He has taught electric and acoustic guitar in private lesson and class settings for the last 10 years.

Edward Van Landeghem,

Percussion/Instructor. Edward Van Landeghem began playing drums over 30 years ago causing music and rhythm to course through his veins ever since that time. He studied with numerous private teachers before attending Lebanon Valley College for a Bachelors Degree in Music. Since graduation, Edward has been active in playing for live shows, recordings, and worship with anticipation and vigor. He currently enjoys playing improvisational jazz as well as spontaneous worship music.
