Prayer of Invocation/Confession

Most Gracious God, we love You Lord. Lead us and guide us as we worship You in Spirit and in Truth. May we be found faithful to Your Word. May we see where change is needed. Help us, Holy Spirit, to construct our lives on the solid rock of Your Holy Word. We love You Lord. As the body of Christ, we are ready to build Your Kingdom. You have gifted us; now send us forth together as the body of Christ. Baptize us again in the Holy Spirit. Direct us to drink of the Holy Spirit. We love You Lord. Amen.

CALL TO WORSHIP

Extol the LORD our God; worship at His footstool. Holy is He! Extol the LORD our God, and worship at His holy mountain; for the LORD our God is holy.

Offertory Prayer

Gracious Lord, we are grateful for all You have done. We could not be here today if You had not given us daily bread. You have provided for our needs through Your mercy, please make us in struments so that the needs of others may also be met. With our tithes, mission gifts and sacrificial offerings, make us better and help us to know the joy of being a cheerful giver. In the name of Jesus, the Ultimate Gift, we pray. Amen.

“Therefore, my beloved, be steadfast, immovable, always excelling in the work of the Lord, because you know that in the Lord your labor is not in vain.”
 1 Corinthians 15:58

REV. DR. JESSIE DOUGLAS, SR.

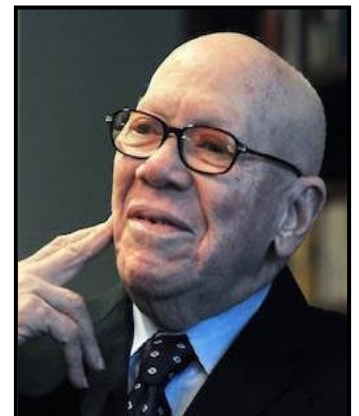

Minister, civil rights activist, vocalist, Jesse Lee Douglas, Sr. was born August 19, 1930 in New Orleans, Louisiana, to William and Isabella Douglas, a Merchant Marine cook and a maid. He attended Dillard University in New Orleans, Louisiana and Lane College in Jackson, Tennessee before obtaining his divinity degree at the Interdenominational Theological Center in Atlanta, Georgia, the city where in 1960 he, along with other area students, took action to desegregate a cafeteria frequented by state government employees. A sit-in protest resulted in arrests and the lawsuit Douglas and Reynolds vs. Vandenberg, filed on behalf of the students by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), which effectively ended racial separation at “all facilities at the Atlanta capitol building.”

Douglas’s albinism—fair skin, blue eyes, and blond hair—spared him from arrest in Atlanta and would be adroitly exploited in the future in the cause of civil rights for blacks in the South. In 1962, he moved to Montgomery, Alabama, to pastor the First Christian Methodist Episcopal (CME) Church. The following year he was elected president of the Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA), an organization founded in 1955 in response to the Montgomery Bus Boycott and first headed by another local cleric, Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. It was during Douglas’s three-year tenure as MIA president, that efforts in March 1965 by MIA in conjunction with SCLC to register black voters met with resistance from state officials, unprovoked violence from Alabama state troopers, and deadly attacks on civil rights volunteers. A trusted and reliable ally of King and SCLC, Douglas again proved his value to the civil rights movement through his skillful, behind the scenes coordination of logistics that sustained the 18-day, 54-mile Selma to Montgomery marches.

Long referred to as the “unidentified white man,” a photo of Douglas during this tumultuous era (March 17, 1965) famously shows him locked arm-in-arm with King and John Lewis, then chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), leading a crowd to the Montgomery County courthouse where they negotiated protocols for protest demonstrations with city officials. Douglas was also a stirring vocalist who sang at religious gatherings and was often requested by King to set the right tone for his rousing speeches with King’s favorite gospel hymn, “If He Changed My Name.”

At 88, Douglas feels he has lived a full life. Douglas says, “I believe that everything I have done with my life has been within the will of God,” “I’m just glad that I was sensitive enough to realize that these were my callings. Even now, he can be found giving guest lectures at schools across the country about the Movement and his experiences in Alabama.

Douglas continues to have hope for race relations. “There’s only one God and one human race,” the reverend says. “And He loves all of His creation equally. He gives us talents and abilities to use for all of our brothers. We’ve come quite a ways, but there is still a long ways to go.”

Worship Services in the
Rev. Dr. Samuel Leon Whitney Fellowship Hall

“Prior to the 20th century, most African American Christian women commonly followed 1Corinthians 11:6 and covered their heads in worship. For early African Americans, God’s house was not only a sanctuary of hope and salvation in a brutal world, but it was also one of the few places where they were allowed to hold important positions of leadership. Sunday was thus a day of worship and celebration. African American women traded in their drab aprons and knotted head wraps for brightly colored dresses and straw hats decorated with fresh flowers, ribbons and feathers. These heaven-reaching hats were designed to “catch God’s eye” in hopes He would hear their prayers.”

*From History of Black Women Wearing Hats to Church by Nicole Kidder
 Julie Rambo/Ministry Chair-Mary Davis/Ministry Co-Chair Tuesday Rambo-McCall/Ministry Secretary*

On Sunday, February 24, 2019 the “We Sew Love” Quilters will be dressed in hats, suits, gloves, etc. commemorating our theme “Sunday Best” and giving honor to all the Black Women and Men of our past who brought their best to God’s house.
