My reason as to why I pursue or care for the orphans

Many years ago a child was placed in an orphanage and her story would be truly miraculous. A husband and his wife, without children, decided they wanted to adopt a child. The adoption took place and the child they adopted would later affect many lives around the world.

Being raised in a Christian home had a tremendous effect upon her life. Through the years she attended college and graduated with honors. Meeting a wonderful man they married and became pastors. She was given the gift of playing the piano and was a gifted speaker touching many, many lives. Through the years she gave birth to five children and was a lasting influence in their lives. Her love and devotion to others were filled in so many areas around the world. A book could be written of all the things she accomplished and the lives she touched.

Having a deep love for missions she wanted to reach the children who were orphaned such as she. I believe the reason I'm so desirous of helping the orphan is because this is the STORY OF MY MOTHER.

The orphanage we have in India is dedicated to my mom and I am sure this puts a big smile on her face as she looks down and sees what is being accomplished through this ministry to and for the orphans.
