

Gearing Up: Royal Servants 2015

A glimpse into my life

I know ALL of you are JUST as anxious (if not more), as I am, to find out where I am going this summer with our (Reign's) Royal Servants division!! I still do not know where I am headed, but am hoping to find out in the next couple - few weeks!!!! If you would like to know more about what our summer program looks like, you can visit us online at: www.reignministries.org

2 updates in one month (technically 3 if you received a copy of my March Newsletter) only means one thing: we are indeed gearing up for the summer (May 26) so there is much to DO and SAY, and I am always so anxious to fill you all in on what's going on in my life, ministry, and city.

This update will actually look a lot different than the ones you are used to seeing to from me. This will not necessarily be a picture blog update about my life and what's been going on the last month, but rather, it will be a brief update about me gearing up for the summer!

It is insane and sooooo exciting to think that me and the rest of the Reign Ministries' Staff leave for Training Camp in 57 days!!! Yep, you read that correctly. 57 days! It sneaks up on me quicker and quicker every summer! This will be my 7th summer with Royal Servants and my 2nd summer as Reign Staff. This is what I wake up in the morning for; this is my heartbeat; this is what I love. I absolutely canNOT wait!

Unfortunately, we have officially cancelled our Eastern Europe team, due to a lack of low sign ups. We highly encourage those students to switch to another team, since most of them have already begun their support raising process. The countries we will be traveling to this summer are:

- China
- Costa Rica
- Ireland
- Kenya
- Nepal
- Scotland
- Western Europe

In preparation for the summer, and as the office gets busier, my bosses, Margaret and Tom, have decided to give us Royal Servants Staff 1 day off a week, about every 2 weeks, from now until May 26th. They did this so that we could get refreshed and prepare for our Royal Servants summer. We will rotate out who gets a day off that week, and can I just say.....what. a. blessing. I am THANKFUL to work for an organization that takes care of all their staff and gives them sabbatical days in order to be healthy, and function well and effectively in this summer's ministry.

Today was my first day off and it was wonderful. I slept in, ate breakfast with my roommate Raechel, took my car in to get the recall notice taken care of, ran some errands, and walked around the sculpture gardens, breathing in fresh forest-like air.

In preparation for this summer, I have created an Amazon Wish List...

with some of the things I'll need before I go! If you would like to purchase something you can fill in the shipping address to my apartment:

2427 W 21st Street
Minneapolis, MN 55405

I am so so so thankful and so appreciative of your continued prayers, love, encouragement, and support throughout this journey.

I can NOT do this without you!
Just thinking of you all brings tears to my eyes.
My heart is full.
The LORD is good and so faithful.

THANK YOU. LOVE you.
