Following Jesus... Reach, Grow, Go... Real Life with Real People

Trusting in God's Promise

Have you ever felt like you have some blaring flaw? Like maybe you are a people pleaser, longing for the affirmation of others. Maybe you're angry and people get hurt in your anger. Perhaps you are a manipulator, deceiver, and a liar. Or maybe, you're like Sarah who is impatient and cynical. What is your flaw? The one thing in your life that you think God can just not use. We've probably all asked this question: How could he ever use someone like me?

We first meet Sarai, also known as Sarah, when she is in her mid-sixties and has no children. I'm sure she struggled with her identity as a woman because she had never been a mother. When all of the sudden her husband has an encounter with God. And God made a promise to Abram that he would have a son. Not only that he would have a son, but that there will be an incredible nation. In Genesis 15:4 he tells Abram to look at the stars and count them, "so shall your offspring be." God makes a covenant with Abram and "Abram believed the LORD and he credited it to him as righteousness" (v.6). God asks us the same thing every day what God has asked Abram. I'm not saying that God has promised to give you a child that will have descendants more numerous than the stars in the sky, but that God asks us to trust in his goodness despite your circumstances. God asks us every day to trust in his crazy promises, no matter the situation. He points us up to the sky and asks us every day, do you think I can fulfill my promises? And we get to respond with Yes or No.

In your life, you know what God's plan and will is for you. You've been in the faith long enough, and at a basic level you know what God's plan is for you in a particular situation. For example, God has called us to love our neighbor despite them being an idiot. We do it because that is God's plan for us and we trust his goodness. God also calls us to forgive. Not just once, twice, three times, but unending. We trust in his will and we trust in this goodness. It's really easy to do this with the small things, but what about when God asks you to do the hard things. It's hard to love someone who really hurt you. To forgive someone that broke you apart. Sarai was trusting God of a hard thing; that is, a family.

So when Abram tells Sarai about this wonderful promise God has made, I'm sure she was happy and excited that she'll be a mother of a great nation, but I imagine her heart would be heavy with the burden of being a mom. God gave her that promise after a whole lifetime of not being able to experience it. I imagine that it consumed her and filled her with joy. That she locked her heart onto that desire and that future and it overwhelmed her. And who could blame her? Trusting in God for a really BIG thing. What in your life right now are you trusting in God? What thing do you have to walk through even though you don't want to walk it? What are you praying for that's a really big thing that you have to wait on God for?

Ten years go by for Sarai and Abram. Ten years of waiting on God's promise. As they counted the years with no child, Sarai took God's silence on the promise and struggle to trust God with the promise as permission for her to improvise the promise. When God is not working the way we want him to there is this urge that bubbles up in us and doubts God. In Genesis 16 she says, "God has prevented me from having children." She puts the blame on God and she comes up with a plan to give her servant Hagar to Abram so that God's promise would be fulfilled. Sarai is so tired of waiting and angry with God that this horrible plan in her mind makes perfect sense. She is so desperate for the future to be the present. We have empathy for her desire to be a mom, that is a pain I can't imagine, but her plan is sad and ridiculous and heartbreaking. But we are judgmental and hypocritical if we think we don't do the very same things.

Sarai then gets angry when her plan actually works and Hagar gets pregnant. You see, where we are impatient there too is the lowering of our standards and compromising of our values. Impatience can be a snake that unravels God's plan for you. There is good news though. Despite Sarai's impatience, and her horrible, terrible plan, God gives her a son, the son he planned. Not only that, but Jesus Christ, God's son, would come from the ancestry of Sarai. God still uses her. God still uses you. You might be a people pleaser or manipulator or angry or impatient, whatever flaw you have, God still uses you. God's plan for you is salvation. With your faith in Jesus, no matter where you find yourself in your story, know, in the end, that God has written you in eternity.

God gives us the talents, abilities and gifts necessary for our tasks, and then God grants us the glorious privilege of serving in the kingdom.

1 Corinthians 3:9

Applying Bible Principles

Something to Think About

"A farmer plows his field, sows the seed, fertilizes and cultivates — all the while knowing that in the end he is dependent on forces outside of himself. He knows he cannot cause the seed to germinate, nor can he produce the rain and sunshine for growing and harvesting the crop. For a successful harvest, he is dependent on these things from God. Yet the farmer knows that unless he diligently pursues his responsibilities to plow, plant, fertilize and cultivate, he cannot expect a harvest at the end of the season. In a sense, he is in a partnership with God, and he will reap its benefits only when he has fulfilled his own responsibilities. Farming is a joint venture between God and the farmer. The farmer cannot do what God must do, and God will not do what the farmer should do." (The Pursuit of Holiness, Jerry Bridges)

What is true of farming is also true of the Christian life. To use Bridges' terminology, Christianity is a "joint venture" between God and Christians. We cannot do what God must do, and God will not do what we should do. He allows us to have a part in the work of His kingdom. Our part is to be faithful, doing our best, with Jesus in control.

It's what 1 Corinthians 3:9 describes so clearly: "... we are God's fellow workers." So whether we are cleaning carpets, caring for children in the nursery, assisting visitors in the parking lot, singing in the choir or preaching sermons, we are working side by side with God. He gives us the time, talents and treasure necessary for the tasks, and then God grants us the glorious privilege of serving in His ministry.

PRESCHOOL NEWS

No one has yet realized the wealth of sympathy, the kindness and generosity hidden in the soul of a child. The effort of every true education should be to unlock the treasure.

Encourage one another daily, as long as it is still called Today.
Hebrews 3:13

Mrs. Wilson's classes returned from Spring break to begin April with a farm unit, including lots of activities involving Mrs. Wishy Washy by Joy Cowley and The Very Busy Spider by Eric Carle; two preschool favorites. Students were able to witness caterpillars growing and forming a chrysalis, and waited patiently for butterflies to emerge while exploring the book The Very Hungry Caterpillar by Eric Carle. The four-year-old class continued letter-of-the-week studies, forming and erupting volcanoes during letter "V" week, experimenting with wind and water during "W" week, and going on a scavenger hunt throughout the classroom wearing "X-ray glasses" during "X" week. We learned the Bible verse for the month, "Your sins have been forgiven" (1 John 2:12) as we continued our celebration of Easter. Bible stories for April were parables and miracles of Jesus, including Jesus calming a storm Jesus and feeding 5,000 people, the story of the lost sheep, and the stories of Palm Sunday and Easter. Time was also spent learning about bike safety and helping others as students prepared for the annual Trike-a-thon event to benefit St. Jude's Hospital. A highlight for the four-year-old class was a field trip riding the MAX train to visit the Hillsboro fire station. The three-year-old class attended a library field trip, with a tour, private story time, and then a walk around the ponds, viewing ducks and other wildlife.
