

The Caller

October 1, 2014

Since I have only served at CCPC for 10 years, I was surprised at the outpouring of emotion during the rededication ceremony on Sunday. The ceremony opened with a slide show that Kathryn McCarty and Alexandra Bourne put together sharing pictures from before the waterlogged roof of the Fellowship (now Dodds) Hall was lifted off and the work on our sanctuary was even started. I sometimes had a hard time recognizing the 21 year old pictures of our current members holding the shovel from the ground-breaking ceremony. In many of those pictures were CCPC Saints who have transitioned into the heavenly kingdom. There is indeed a great cloud of witnesses that offers loving encouragement as we celebrate the journey that brought us this beautiful place to worship God.

Building Chair John Mather gave a presentation that detailed the long and arduous journey to get the building completed. (John's manuscript is available on our website) The Building Committee (made up of several members during its long existence) served 10 years from start to finish. There were stops and starts. Plans that never got approved. Banks that would not provide financing. Of course he didn't mention the earlier work during Dick Neff's pastorate that almost got the project off the ground. We are celebrating 20 years in our new sanctuary but the vision for a place set apart for the worship of God goes back at least 40 years. Hope was fulfilled for those that didn't give up. We have our timetable; sometimes God has another.

This history reminded me of the words Moses uttered to the people of Israel. The great leader of the Exodus endured over 40 years in the wilderness as God prepared the people for their new land. Despite his long and hard service, Moses never got to cross over and live in the land. He only got to see a glimpse of the Promised Land from the mountaintop. In a similar way, many of the works that we dedicate our lives to are not fulfilled in our lifetimes. Some spend years working towards a goal that will not be accomplished until decades after they are gone. Yet they press on. This is a central part of faith.

There are other events that mark the hopes and dreams of generations. When children are baptized it marks a commitment of the parents to raise their child in the faith that has sustained them. For grandparents it is a double blessing. They proudly observe, knowing that this now adult child, the same child who was willful and perhaps slow to get it, is now taking on the awesome responsibility of passing on the faith and hope we know in Christ to their grandchildren. It must seem incredible. After all those crazy teen and young adult years did my son or daughter really figure it out? Most grandparents won't be around to see if that grandchild whose sins are washed away in the baptismal rite will come to claim the promises their parents make. Yet they press on, only seeing glimpses of the promise fulfilled.

The Apostle Paul in Philippians 3 shares this determination to keep pressing on towards goals that are never completed in our lifetime. We never rest on our laurels and brag about our heritage, but "forgetting what lies behind and pressing on towards the goal of knowing and becoming like Christ."

I have come to value special church anniversaries. It reminds me that my life is built on the foundations of faith that Christ laid years ago in this community. It gives me an opportunity to give thanks for the sacrifice and dedication of individuals that I never met. I am amazed to see how many individuals who have moved away years ago, return and say how CCPC feels like home. I know this motivates me to press on in passing on the joy of knowing and serving Christ. Eventually all of us will join the great cloud of heavenly witnesses cheering on those that follow in our footsteps. The tears of joy that flowed from hearts on Sunday are expressions that God is indeed very good.

Joyfully,
Rev. James Brassard

PS. I want to thank Mary Lou Chappell for making the arrangements and marshalling the many volunteers to serve the Anniversary luncheon. Thanks also to Susan Ricci-Rogel and our choirs for their outstanding musical offerings before and during the service. One thing that has been consistently good during 20 years of worship in our sanctuary is the music. We are richly blessed.

Worship Notes

Sunday October 5:

(World Wide Communion Observance) We will hold our Annual Memorial Brick Dedication. The names of individuals whose Bricks will be dedicated will be read during the 10 AM worship service. Families and friends are invited to tour the Memorial Garden following the service. A Memorial Program listing the names of all those individuals who have bricks dedicated in their honor will be inserted into the regular bulletin. A new Memorial Plaque that records all those whose ashes have been dispersed into the Garden is now up in the Atrium. Those families who would like the nameplates from the former plaques may pick them up on Sunday from Patti and Ken Adams. The sermon is titled "Establishing Your Anchor" from Philippians 3:4-21.

October 12:

Rev. Holly Ulmer, the Presbyterian Chaplain and the University of Maryland will be our guest preacher.

Personal Care Items

Did you forget to bring your personal care items to the church office?

Please don't put them on the table in the atrium or they will go to the Pantry.

We need many personal care items if we are to supply each Christmas Family with a personal care package. Your help is greatly appreciated. Questions? Contact Frances Rocha at rochafranc@verizon.net or 301-262-5909.

Christmas Post Office

After considerable discussions over the past few years, we decided to no longer use the CCPC Christmas Post Office to exchange cards within the church. There were several reasons for this decision. First and foremost is the cost of cards and the considerable stress it puts on members to address the envelopes and put notes on the cards. Then, there was the never-ending work of getting cards delivered to members who didn't pick them up. Instead, this year, we are going to have a huge church wide card in the atrium for you to sign your name. We will have two scrapbooks next to the mega card for you to insert your card/letter and picture for everyone to admire and read. We hope to bring more simplicity and serenity to your Advent observances.

The next Caller will be sent out on Friday, October 10th. Please have all articles in by 9 AM on Tuesday, October 7th. Any questions, please call the office. Thank you!

Flowers for Worship Services

The Flower Committee is most happy to arrange flowers for you for Sunday mornings.

If you are wondering how to order flowers:

- * Sign up, or call the office, no later than Sunday, before you want the flowers.

SESSION HIGHLIGHTS

A search committee of the Personnel Committee has advertised and is receiving applications for the newly created position of Director of Christian Education. Brian Cable was elected on September 7 to fill an unexpired term on the Session as an elder/trustee in the Class of 2015.

CCPC has received funds in the amount of $14,600 as a beneficiary of the Bruce Bell estate. This bequest is in addition to a prior receipt of funds from a Bruce Bell retirement account for which CCPC was a direct beneficiary. Bruce passed away in Florida in 2013 and was a former member of CCPC.

Rev. Holly Ulmer will preach at worship services on October 12. She is a Presbyterian chaplain at the University of Maryland, College Park, and has preached for us in the past.

Volunteer Opportunities

Are you interested in volunteering?

The CCPC office has times when volunteers are needed for things like:

- ◆ Phone coverage and little tasks like mail sorting, etc.
- ◆ Bulletin folding on Friday's
- ◆ Folding, sealing, and stamping the newsletter
- ◆ Help with the CCPC directory
- ◆ Shredding
- ◆ And more

Some of these jobs already have volunteers, but we need someone when they are not available. For the folks who already signed up in the Time and Talent Survey under interest in Office Help, then you do not need to reply as you are already on the list. For those of you who never signed up or never knew there was such a survey, but have an interest in assisting the office, please feel free to contact Robin by phone 301-262-6008 or email ccpcbowie@verizon.net and she will be happy to include you on the list of interested parties. You will receive an email when volunteers are needed and if you could pitch in that would help so much. If not, maybe next time. We hope to hear from a lot you!

Elijah's Bowl

October 11th is CCPC's turn to prepare food for Elijah's Bowl at Grace Lutheran Church.

A sign up will be in the atrium. We will also be collecting canned goods for trick or treat. Fill a grocery bag with items such as applesauce, mixed fruit, fruit rollups as well as canned veggies, soups, canned meats, peanut butter, and jelly.

Donations can be placed in the atrium in a box marked Elijah's Bowl. Pumpkin painting will be available for the kids who attend. A volunteer is needed to purchase and coordinate the paint activity.

Trunk or Treat

Halloween is almost here!

Join us in the parking lot for some old-fashioned fun on

Sunday, October 26th from 2:30 to 4:30 PM

We will have games and activities in Dodds Hall from 2:30-3:45, followed by "Trunk" or Treating around the parking lot! Start planning your trunk decorations now — our Golden Pumpkin trophy this year will be BIGGER and BETTER than ever!

Volunteers are much needed to staff tables for games and crafts.

Please email Rebecca (ccpckids@gmail.com) if you can take a turn at a table!

Please bring candy to give out to our little ghosts and goblins — or you might get TRICKED!
